

The numbers we still need

Delta Rentals — everything your website does not publish, in one form

23 August 2026

Your website gives us the car, the daily price, the photos and the free kilometres per day. Everything below is the part it does not publish, and the assistant cannot quote a figure nobody has confirmed.

Where we already have a value it is shown, so many of these are a tick rather than an answer. Sections 1, 2 and 3 are the urgent ones — those are the figures the assistant would otherwise state wrongly to a customer.

How to reply: fill in the blanks, or just send back the numbers — "1: 5,000 / 2: 10,000 / 5: no" is perfectly fine.

1 — Deposits

Your site says four different things about deposits, on the same page:

- The homepage and listings say "No Deposit Required"
- Terms 3.1 says "a security deposit ranging from AED 5,000 to AED 20,000 is required, subject to vehicle, driver profile, and rental duration"
- The invoicing section says "we will block a deposit of AED 5,000"
- A later section says "a security deposit of AED 5,000 is required for luxury and supercar rentals"

Section 4 appears to reconcile them — the no-deposit option is a paid, non-refundable extra rather than the standing policy. If that is right, the assistant needs the actual figures, because "no deposit" as a headline and AED 20,000 at handover is the worst conversation a customer can have.

1. Is a deposit the default, with "no deposit" as a paid option? _____
2. The no-deposit fee — the one number the site never states. Flat AED _____, or a percentage of the rental _____ %
3. Standard deposit — economy and sedans, AED _____
4. SUVs and luxury sedans — AED _____
5. Sports and convertibles — AED _____
6. Supercars — AED _____
7. Release period. Your terms give 30 days in section 3.2, 28 days under invoicing, and 28 working days further down. Which is right? _____
8. Is the AED 100 pre-authorisation applied on every rental, or only on no-deposit ones?

2 — Kilometres

Every listing on your site states 250 km per day, supercars included, so we have taken that as standard across the fleet. What the site never states is the cost of going over it.

9. Cost per extra kilometre. Your terms say AED 25–150 depending on the vehicle, so we need it by class. Economy/sedan _____ · SUV/luxury _____ · Sports _____ · Supercar _____
10. Can a customer buy unlimited mileage? If so, how much per day? _____

3 — Weekly and monthly rates

Your site lists these as "on request", so the assistant currently bills day × number of days — which overcharges anyone renting for a month.

11. Is there a standard weekly discount? e.g. 6 days' price for 7 days _____

12. A standard monthly rate? e.g. 25 days' price for 30 _____

13. From how many days does the weekly rate apply? _____ The monthly? _____

4 — What the assistant may offer on its own

Right now every discount ceiling is zero, so every price request goes to you. That is deliberately safe, and it will get tiring for you within a week.

14. May the assistant offer a discount without asking you? Up to what percentage? _____

15. Is there a longer-rental discount it may apply automatically? _____

16. Above what percentage must it always ask you first? _____

5 — Delivery

17. Free delivery inside Dubai — confirmed from your site. Is it free regardless of rental length? _____

18. Delivery to Sharjah — free, or AED _____

19. Abu Dhabi — free, or AED _____

20. Airport delivery (DXB) — free, or AED _____

21. Delivery hours. We have 9 AM–11 PM from your site. Is there an out-of-hours fee, and what is it? _____

6 — Cancellation, late return, extension

- 22. Free cancellation up to _____ hours before pickup. Currently assumed: 72.
- 23. Cancelling later than that costs _____ % of the rental. Currently assumed: 100%.
- 24. No-show costs _____ %.
- 25. Late return — how many minutes' grace, and what is charged after? _____
- 26. After how many hours late does a full extra day get charged? _____

7 — Driver requirements

- 27. Minimum age. We assume 21 for standard cars, 25 for sports and supercars. Correct? _____
- 28. Must a licence have been held for a minimum number of years? _____
- 29. Anything required beyond passport, licence and visa — for tourists, GCC residents, or for the supercars? _____

8 — Payment and fuel

- 30. How does a customer actually pay? Card link, bank transfer, cash on collection, card at handover? _____
- 31. Is the deposit taken as a card hold or an actual charge? _____
- 32. Fuel policy — like-for-like, full-to-full, or prepaid? And the refuelling fee if returned short: _____

9 — Availability — the important one

Your website does not publish availability anywhere, so the assistant currently cannot tell whether a car is actually free on the dates a customer asks for.

- 33. How do you track which cars are booked today? A system, a spreadsheet, a WhatsApp group, someone's memory? _____
- 34. Could we read from it, or receive it in some regular form? _____
- 35. Until then: should the assistant treat every booking as a request that you confirm, rather than telling the customer it is confirmed? _____

10 — When the assistant needs a person

36. Which number should it message when something is outside its rules — a refund, an accident, an unusual request? _____

37. What hours is that person realistically reachable? _____

38. If nobody is available at 2 AM, what should the customer be told? _____

Anything you leave blank stays blank in the assistant — it will say "the team will confirm that" rather than guess a number. That is the safe failure, but it is also a lost sale each time, so the more of these that come back, the more the assistant can close on its own.
